

Desktop Originator/Desktop Underwriter Test Credit Report Procedures

November 20, 2017

The Fannie Mae Test Credit Agency (Test Credit Agency) is a mock credit database comprised of test borrowers to help our customers develop and test customized loan application scenarios specific to their business needs. Lenders, originators, third-party trainers, and vendors that have access to Desktop Originator®/Desktop Underwriter® DO®/DU® can use the Test Credit Agency to request test credit reports for the test borrowers.

The test credit reports generated by the Test Credit Agency are available free of charge to registered DO/DU users. In addition, all submissions to DU for the test borrowers identified below are free of charge.

NOTE: Use of these test borrowers for testing and training purposes is subject to the terms and conditions of the Fannie Mae Software Subscription Agreement and the DO/DU Schedules.

Requesting credit reports from the Test Credit Agency

To access the Test Credit Agency, select Test Credit Agency (200) from the list of credit providers. Enter any combination of letters and numbers as the account number. Enter fnma as the Password/PIN.

You can access the Test Credit Agency during the same hours of availability as DO/DU. Because we are not connecting to an outside credit service, your test credit report will be returned within seconds.

List of test borrowers

The following chart identifies the test borrowers for whom test credit reports are currently available through DU.

Make sure borrowers are listed exactly as shown below. Where a borrower and co-borrower are listed together, a joint credit report must be ordered.

NOTE: The borrowers used for DU testing and training purposes are fictitious and do not relate to real people. The names, addresses, Social Security numbers, and ITINs were created at random, and any similarity with real individuals is unintentional.

To order these test credit reports, follow these instructions:

- Correctly enter “borrowers” and “co-borrowers.” For example, always enter John Homeowner as the borrower and Mary Homeowner as the co-borrower in the loan application.
- Request “joint” credit when the borrower and co-borrower are listed together. For example, order joint credit for John and Mary Homeowner. Request “individual” credit when a borrower is listed individually.
- You can combine test borrowers and co-borrowers to create a three-or four-borrower loan application. Order the appropriate joint or individual credit reports, as applicable.
- Actual reissues on the test borrowers cannot be obtained. The system will return a new report.

NOTE: Although the credit scores are not used in determining the recommendation, they do indicate the relative level of credit risk for each test case. For the test borrowers, the credit scores have been estimated and do not reflect actual credit scores. For this reason, the score factor codes have been omitted from the test credit reports.

Using the test Social Security numbers

The request for the test credit reports is based solely on the Social Security number (or ITIN) entered for the borrower(s).

- Unlike actual credit agencies, the Test Credit Agency does not validate the Social Security number against the borrower's name or address. For example, if you enter John Homeowner as the borrower, but enter Patrick Purchaser's Social Security number, the system will return the Purchaser credit report.
- The credit reports will not be returned if you enter the Social Security numbers incorrectly and you may receive an error message.

Updating the credit reports

We will update the credit data monthly so that you will receive consistent underwriting results which each test credit report you request. For the most part, we update the dates associated with all test tradelines, public records, and inquiries. This will mean that if a borrower has "recent mortgage delinquencies" as a significant credit factor, it will always be the case whether the loan is submitted today or six months from now.

The date on the credit report you retrieve may not be exactly the same as the date when you pull the credit report. We will update the credit report data monthly to reflect the first of the current month (i.e., the month pulled). The date shown on your test credit report will have no effect on the evaluation of the credit.

Miscellaneous

Additional borrowers and credit reports may become available in the future.

NOTE: Some of the above borrower names and Social Security numbers are also available in test credit reports provided by one or more of our external credit information providers. The data in these test credit reports may not match the test credit reports provided in the Fannie Mae Test Credit Agency; therefore, underwriting results may differ if external test credit reports are used.

Review the companion Test Credit Report Characteristics document, which lists specific credit data on each test borrower, including:

- which borrowers have outstanding mortgages;
- the number of times each borrower was 30, 60, and 90 days delinquent;
- whether a borrower has frozen credit;
- which borrowers have public records (bankruptcy, foreclosure, tax liens, outstanding judgments, collections, and civil suits).
